V. SCOPE OF WORK

The Subrecipient shall provide the following services:

1. Short-term Device Loans to individuals or entities.
2. Device Demonstrations to an individual or small group of individuals not to exceed seven persons.
3. Training Events to small or large groups.
4. Assistive Technology Usage and Troubleshooting services to an individual.
5. Information and Assistance to an individual.

VI. DEFINITIONS

1. Community-based Services: Services that are accessible to individuals with disabilities, parents, educators, employers, providers of employment services, health care workers, counselors, other service providers, and vendors. In this model, the Subrecipient provides services in natural environments, to take advantage of natural supports and local resources.
2. Short-term Device Loan: An occasion in which a device or devices are borrowed by an individual/entity who will use the device for one of the following purposes:
 - a. To make a decision (one decision) based on data, judgments, and other relevant information gained from trial use of the device in a natural environment with technical assistance available, upon request, from someone who has technical expertise related to the device(s) borrowed.
 - b. To provide loaner equipment during device repair or while waiting for funding (no decision is involved).
 - c. To provide accommodation for a time-limited event such as a meeting or hospital stay (no decision is involved).
 - d. To conduct training, self-education, or other professional development activities (no decision involved).

3. Device Demonstrations: The purpose of a device demonstration is to enable an individual with a disability to make an informed choice. Device Demonstrations provide an individual with a disability guided experience with the device(s). Device Demonstrations are provided by a professional that has technical expertise related to the device(s). This professional may be in the same location as the participant or may assist the participant through Internet or distance learning mechanism that provides real-time, effective communication to deliver the necessary device exploration.
4. Training Events: Instructional events, usually planned for a specific purpose or audience, designed to increase participants' knowledge, skills, and competencies regarding assistive technology. Events may be small or large and conducted in-person, telecommunications, or other distance education mechanisms. In general, participants in training events can be individually identified and could complete an evaluation. Examples include classes, workshops, and presentations that have a goal of increasing skills, knowledge, and competency, as opposed to interactions intended only to increase general awareness of assistive technology.
 - a. Differences between Device Demonstrations and Training Events: During a Device Demonstration, participants see a variety of devices. Device Demonstrations should not be confused with Training Events which include Device Demonstrations. Training Events are instructional events designed to increase knowledge, skills, and competencies, generally for larger audiences. Training Events are targeted/focused instruction for an individual or small group (such as in-depth training for an individual consumer on a specific assistive technology device). Training Events are skill development activities, whereas Device Demonstrations are for decision-making purposes.
 - b. Differences between Device Demonstrations and Public Awareness Activities: Device Demonstrations should not be confused with Public Awareness activities which include Device Demonstrations. The critical difference is that Device Demonstrations are intended to enable an individual to make an informed choice rather than merely making him or her aware of a variety of assistive technology.
5. AT Usage/Troubleshooting: Working with individual consumers on how to use a particular assistive technology device or troubleshooting problems with devices and reported under "Information and Assistance."
6. Public Awareness: Activities designed to reach large numbers of people, including activities such as public service announcements, radio talk shows, news reports, newspaper stories, newsletters, brochures, and public forums.
 - a. Actual numbers of information recipients are often challenging to know. It is acceptable to document estimations. Although the objective is always to report actual participants.

7. Technical Expertise: The Assistive Technology Act's Technical Assistance Project, AT3, created a working group to establish core competencies for Device Demonstrations.
 - a. The following appendices contain competencies:
 - i. Appendix A: Augmentative and Alternative Communication
 - ii. Appendix B: Assistive Technology for Computers and Related Devices
 - iii. Appendix C: Assistive Technology for Daily Living
 - iv. Appendix D: Assistive Technology for Deaf and Hard of Hearing
 - v. Appendix E: Assistive Technology for Electronic Aids for Daily Living
 - vi. Appendix F: Assistive Technology for Learning, Cognition, and Learning
 - vii. Appendix G: Assistive Technology for Mobility
 - viii. Appendix H: Assistive Technology for Recreation, Sports, and Leisure Equipment
 - ix. Appendix I: Assistive Technology for Low Vision and Blindness
8. Information and Assistance: Information and Assistance activities include the provision of information and support to individuals and provision of referrals to other entities. All these activities may be provided in person, over the telephone, via email, or other effective communication mechanisms.
9. Force Majeure Events include natural calamities and acts of nature, and to the extent, they take place in the United States, acts of terrorism, blockade, embargo, riot, public disorder, violent demonstrations, insurrection, rebellion, civil commotion, and sabotage.
10. State Level Activities, as defined by the Assistive Technology Act of 2004, as amended, (Public Law No. 108-364), are State Financing, ReUse, Device Loan, and Device Demonstration activities.
11. State Leadership Activities, as defined by the Assistive Technology Act of 2004, as amended, (Public Law No. 108-364), are Training Event, Public Awareness, Technical Assistance, and Information and Assistance.

 - ii. If the same individual with a disability or small group receives a demonstration of one or more devices from the same category as the initial device demonstration but shown different features, with the intent of making a decision, document each occasion as separate Device Demonstration events, or
 - iii. If the same individual with a disability or small group receives a demonstration of one or more devices from the same category as a requirement of a funding source with the intent of making a decision on a device within this category, document each occasion as separate Device Demonstration events.
- 3. Training Events: A Training Event is an occasion, planned in advance and for a specific purpose or audience, which are designed to increase participants' knowledge, skills, and competencies regarding assistive technology.
