Ms. Doyle discusses how training was counted in the past. She referred to the AT APR from ATAP. This document explains how each deliverable is reported federally. She reviewed everything that is needed for reporting, the number and the general characteristics of the individuals that participated in the training which we currently do with analytics. You're unable to classify the participants in the training by analytics. Ms. Good suggested we implement a survey and the end of the training to obtain the demographics needed to meet requirement #3. We currently are meeting with training deliverables without the use of the YouTube views. Good also mentioned adding a link or QR code to the end of the video just for participants to verify watching the entire prerecorded training.

5. FY 2022 Deliverables Report | Whitney Doyle & Hannah Brock.

Ms. Doyle stated that was conversation is kicking off how we think deliverables should be reported in the future. This year, October 2023 is the start of a new contract with VR and our new contracted centers have asked how we are coming up with their deliverables. Which is based on headquarters VR deliverables. The AT ACT has new language and does not require performance measures. However, our VR contract does require performance measures. our contract manager, is aware that we are having this conversation. Ms. Brock has put together the last 8 years of deliverable numbers. Ms. Doyle briefly reviewed the numbers and where Florida stands with other states AT programs.

Ms. Brock reviewed the deliverables and FFAST is surpassing all the deliverable goals. The new RDC's are still leaning and getting comfortable with the deliverables. All of the centers meet the Reuse deliverables.
